

OCTOBER

31st October - Reformation Day

Reformation Day is on 31st October, but it isn't a bank holiday. Therefore in church they celebrate it on the last Sunday in October if October 31st happens to be on weekdays. Yet, if the 31st is a week day, there are special services in church to commemorate this important holiday and people who do not have to go to work or school classes will attend these services. Protestant Christians give thanks to God on this day for the opportunity to lead lives of faith, instead of lives of fear.

Most Protestant Christians commemorate Reformation Day in honor of Martin Luther and other Christians who helped him remove false doctrine and destructive practices from the Christian church.
