Flags of the world

A country's flag is very important. Flags tell us something about the country. South Africa is sometimes called the 'Rainbow Nation'. This is because there are people of different colours. Some are from Europe, some from Asia and others are African, but now they are all South Africans. Their flag has also got a lot of different colours – black, yellow, green, white, red and blue.

The colours on a flag say something about the country. Did you know that red is the most popular colour in flags? In China red is the colour of good luck. The Japanese flag is white with a red sun in the middle. Blue in flags is for the sky or water. Green is for the trees and nature.

Canada's flag shows a leaf. This is from a famous tree in Canada – the maple tree.

Most flags are the same shape – but not Nepal's flag!

REMEMBER, REMEMBER THE FIFTH OF NOVEMBER!

These are the words of a children's song. But what happens on 5th November?

5th November is a festival in the UK. People make big fires in their gardens or in parks. They eat and drink and have a party. They watch fireworks. It is often called 'Bonfire* Night'.

Children make a figure like a man – they use old clothes. This is called a 'guy'.

On the evening of 5th November, the guy is put on top of the bonfire. Then they burn it!

THE FLYING DOCTOR

Australia is a very big country. Some people live a long way from a town. This is a problem when people are ill and need to see a doctor. That is why there is a flying doctor service.

Dr Bruce James tells us about his work:

The Royal Flying Doctor Service looks after 270,000 patients a year. They are all over the country. We've got 61 aeroplanes in 21 different places. Together we fly the distance from here to the moon and back, 25 times a year!

I love my job. It's fun and exciting. I do something different and go somewhere different every day. I start work early in the morning, at about six o'clock, because it's good to fly when it isn't hot. It gets very hot sometimes in the summer – often over 40°C. I go where the people need me. Sometimes I visit them in their homes. Sometimes I bring them back to hospital.

I'm very lucky. I help people, I fly a plane and I get to see Australia, too!

1 74 Read and listen to the text. Answer the questions.

Red Nose Day

Here we can see some children celebrating Red Nose Day at school. Nina explains what it is:

On Red Nose Day we don't wear school uniform. We can wear what we want. Most of us also wear big red noses. We play games and do things to make money. We make cakes and sell them. The money goes to help the poor. I love Red Nose Day – it's always fun. And I can watch the Red Nose Day TV programmes when I go home - they are always very funny!

Here are some facts about Red Nose Day in the UK:

- Red Nose Day is on a Friday in March every two years.
- In schools, children play games, draw and have fun.
- In offices, shops and factories, adults do crazy things.
- In the evening, famous people do strange and funny things on TV.
- People collect money and give it away to help others.
- Now millions of people wear funny noses and do something to raise money.

Haggis

Do you know what a haggis is?
Many people in Scotland love eating it, but not many people outside of Scotland know what it is.

Haggis is the national food of Scotland. Scottish people usually make this traditional food from sheep, but can also use cow or pig. It is the insides of the animal - the heart and other parts. To make it, you take these parts out of the animal and cut them into very small pieces. Then cut up some onions and add some salt and pepper. There are other things also, but this is a secret! Then put it all back into the stomach of the sheep. Cook it in water slowly for about three hours.

Traditionally people eat it with 'tatties and neeps', that's potatoes and turnips - types of vegetable. But now you can buy haggis and chips as takeaway food.

There is also a sport called 'haggis-hurling'. The aim is to throw a haggis as far as possible. The record is over 66 metres. Perhaps it is a sport for people who really don't like haggis!
